

Petzel

Adriana Balsamo and Hilary Moss, “At Home: Anchor the Week With Audre Lorde and Chinese Lute Music,” The New York Times, September 19, 2020.

The New York Times

Anchor the Week With Audre Lorde and Chinese Lute Music

You could also check out a Sims-inspired art show, get the expert take on Fashion Week or try a TrapAerobics class.

Melanie Lambrick

By Adriana Balsamo and Hilary Moss

Sept. 19, 2020

Here is a sampling of the week's events and how to tune in (all times are Eastern). Note that events are subject to change after publication.

Monday

See the video game “The Sims 4” in a different light, courtesy of Pieter Schoolwerth, a Brooklyn-based artist. For “Shifted Sims,” his first solo exhibition at New York’s Petzel Gallery, Mr. Schoolwerth turned screenshots from the popular life simulator into surrealist paintings. In an interview for the digital show, Mr. Schoolwerth explains that it’s “almost like we’re navigating a simulation of a life we once lived, from a distance.” (Note that not all of the works are child-friendly.)

When Anytime

Where petzel.com/viewing-room

<https://www.nytimes.com/2020/09/19/at-home/things-to-do-this-week.html>